In May we delivered our first cost-of-living webinar 'Is the cost-of-living crisis over?' in which we had two excellent presentations from Blaenavon Town Council and Darran Valley Community Council about how they are working within their communities to meet local challenges posed by the cost-of-living crisis. Thanks to all council members who attended, participated, and provided feedback.

This is what the attendees said they enjoyed about the webinar:

"New ideas to take back to my council"

“Many useful, relevant ideas to improve facilities for our residents”

“Examples of good work done by 2 other councils”

A recording of the webinar will be available in the next few weeks and all the presentations from this webinar can be found on our website.

WEBINAR RESOURCES

We are launching the One Voice Wales Cost-of-Living Crisis Forum

We have been working on creating a 'Cost of Living Crisis' Community for councils as you told us that an opportunity to connect with one another over certain issues/topics would be something you would benefit from.

A dedicated Facebook group, an online space where community and town councils can come together to share best practice, ask questions, and get help and advice on issues affecting your communities around the Cost-of-Living crisis. The One Voice Wales Cost of Living Crisis Team will also be sharing guidance, signposting and providing resources into this forum.

In July our webinar topic is 'Youth Engagement & Services' we are interested to hear from councils who are actively involved in delivering community youth services and/or have undertaken engagement activities with young people locally. We'd love to hear about your work and to involve you in the sharing of your experiences with other council colleagues
